

Janki Devi Memorial College
University of Delhi
Department of Political Science
Program Outcome and Program Specific Outcomes
Academic Year 2025-26

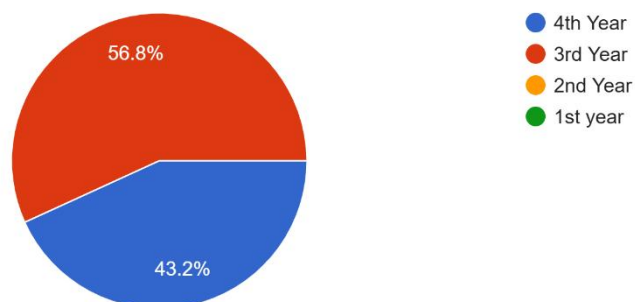

Please select your batch of admission

44 responses

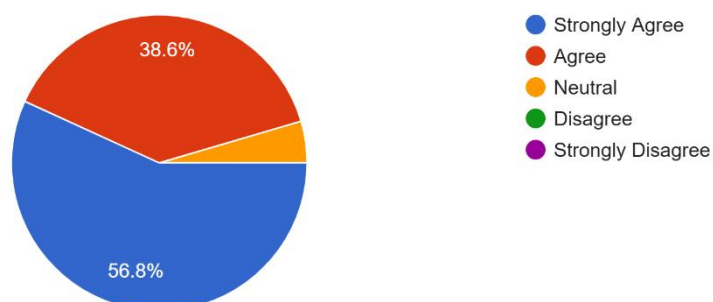

In which year did you take exit?

44 responses

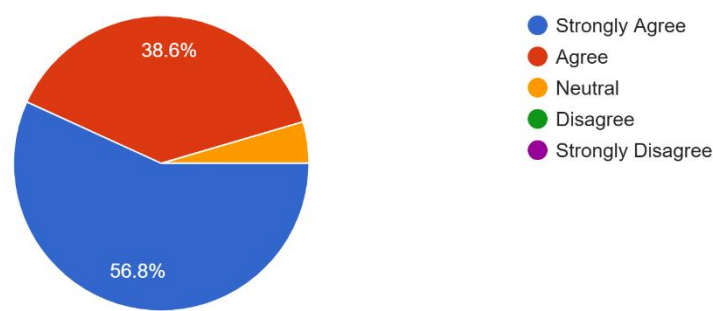

The program developed my critical thinking and questioning attitude.

44 responses

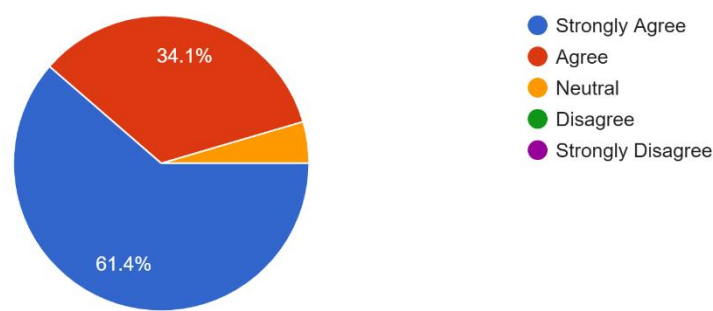

The program developed my critical thinking and questioning attitude.

44 responses

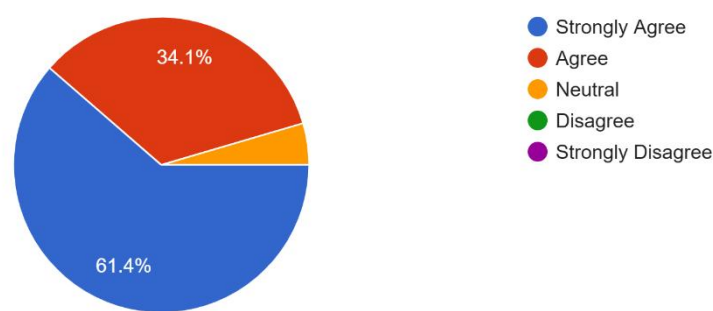

The program improved my communication and academic writing skills

44 responses

After attending the program I feel more confident and responsible as a person.

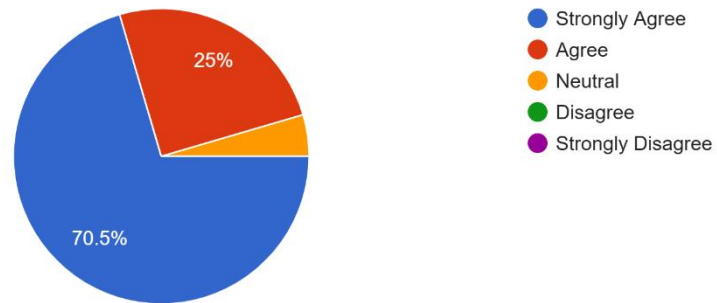

44 responses

PROGRAM SPECIFIC OUTCOMES

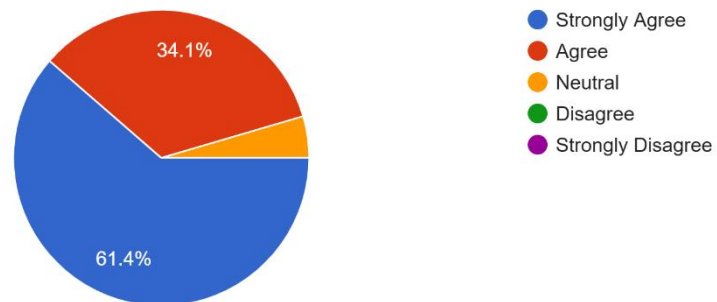

The program gave me a working idea of the Indian Constitution.

44 responses

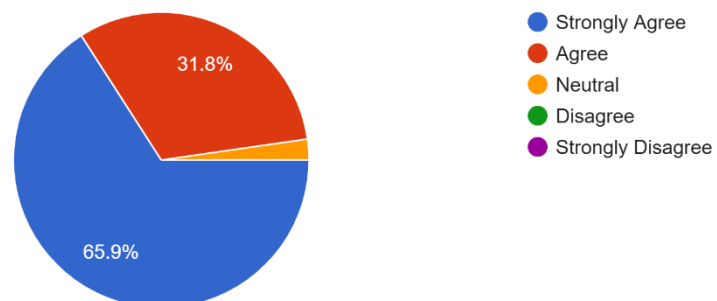

The course gave me practical insight into public administration theory and its relevance today.

44 responses

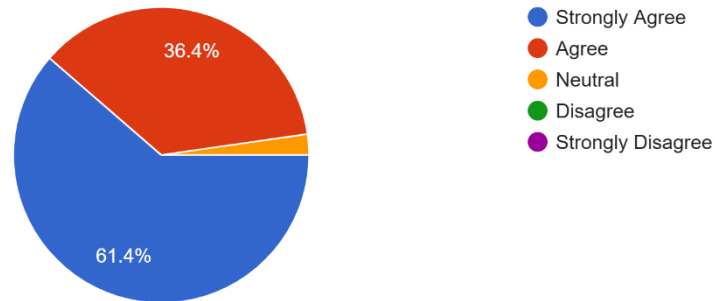

The program gave me a nuanced understanding of international relations and the geopolitical forces that shape it.

44 responses

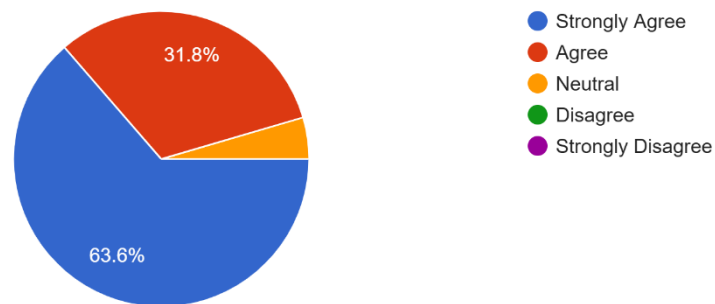

The course sharpened my understanding of comparative politics and how political systems differ across countries.

44 responses

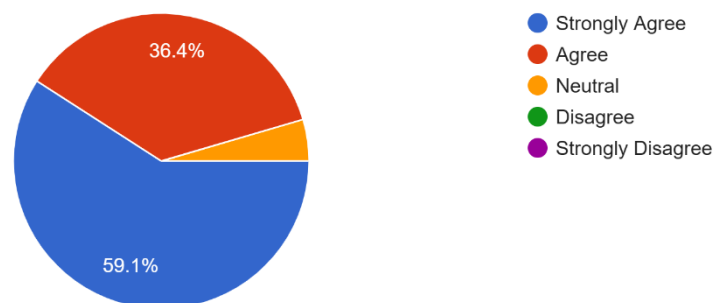

The program introduced me to the major traditions of Western and Indian political thought, and to how their ideas of justice, authority and the state continue to shape political debate.

44 responses

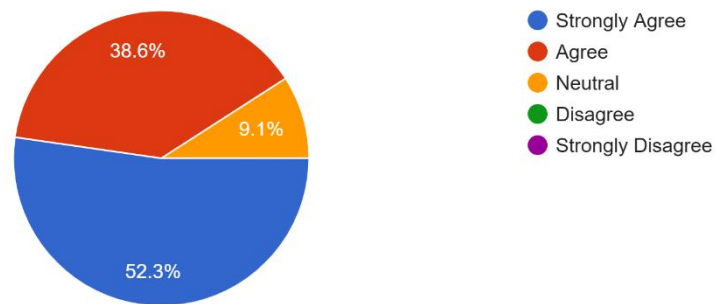

The program deepened my awareness of my constitutional rights and duties and strengthened my sense of civic responsibility.

44 responses

The program prepared me for higher studies or competitive exams.

44 responses

What do you like the most about the program?

- The professor was kind enough to help us understand the topics.
- इस कार्यक्रम में मुझे नई चीजें सीखने और अपने ज्ञान को बढ़ाने का अवसर सबसे अच्छा लगा।
- The teaching faculty was very supportive and helpful
- It's develop our thinking and we learn new things.
- Supports overall development
- Gives a better understanding of the society
- Helps in current affairs and competitive exams

Suggestions

- कार्यक्रम को और बेहतर बनाने के लिए नियमित कक्षाएँ, व्यावहारिक गतिविधियाँ और प्रतियोगी परीक्षाओं से संबंधित मार्गदर्शन दिया जाना चाहिए।
- The subjects should be taught in depth by dwelling upon the major books
- Need for an Organized study material including all essential reading lists prescribed in the syllabus.
- No suggestions needed political science is doing its best in everything sphere

Analysis: The survey of 44 students (59.1% from the 2023–27 batch, 40.9% from 2022–26) shows overwhelmingly positive responses. Every outcome scored 95% or higher on Agree or Strongly Agree, and no one disagreed on any item. Constitutional knowledge (70.5% strongly agree) and international relations (65.9%) were the strongest outcomes. Preparation for higher studies and competitive exams was the weakest, with the lowest strongly-agree share (52.3%) and the highest neutral share (9.1%). Critical thinking (56.8%) was also relatively lower. Written feedback praised faculty support and asked for exam guidance, organized study material, in-depth teaching from major books, and regular classes with practical activities.

Action to be taken:

In light of the program-specific outcome survey, the department will try to integrate the following measures into its teaching and learning practices. To strengthen preparation for higher studies and competitive exams, it will try to introduce a weekly exam-orientation hour on current affairs, answer writing and MCQ practice. It will also try to organize an annual orientation on NET/JRF, civil services and postgraduate pathways, and involve alumni as mentors. Efforts will be made to include previous-year questions in internal tests. Responding to students' suggestions, the department will try to prepare syllabus-wise reading lists of essential and recommended books and make them available through the library and a shared digital folder. It will also try to encourage in-depth study by assigning primary-text readings and holding student seminars. Debates, case-study discussions, a mock parliament and visits to courts or panchayats will be integrated, as far as feasible, to build critical thinking and civic awareness. The department will try to ensure the regularity of classes and add short assignments or field-based tasks to its papers. It will also try to gather feedback from all batches every year and review progress each semester. The same survey will be repeated after a year to see how far these steps have improved outcomes.